"This large tribe, in the summer is divided into distinct families the head of each being a Petty Chief, and reside in separate Coves and Creeks where they procure their Winters food, all of them at this season being full of Fine Salmon, and for their winter Quarters I am Informed that several Families uniting look out for a small island near the Main where they build their houses on Stags formed by the fell'd Trees; this is their Stronghold. . . There are two [foto] on the NWt
